

NOVEMBER

Things that we did the week of November 7

Thanksgiving was introduced this week. We talked about thankfulness, Pilgrims, Native Americans, and of course turkeys! We learned new turkey songs, played fun turkey games called "Turkey Chase" and "Farmer Find the Turkey", hunted pretend turkeys around the room, and did many turkey projects. We also made a class book sharing what we are all thankful for and a book on what we would eat if there were no turkeys! We read the story called Stone Soup. We talked about how we are going to share a meal and have a little 4K program with our families on November 23rd (see Dates To Remember).

The letter Tt was perfect for our Thanksgiving/Turkey theme this week as well. We learned the sound and signs for Tt, practiced tracing/writing Tt, looked at Mrs. Schaefer's Secret Tt Box, did our Tt page for our alphabet book (which we'll each get to keep at the end of the school year), and brought in really neat Tt items for Sharing Day on Friday.

Patterning was officially introduced this week too. We did LOTS and LOTS of patterning! Mrs. Schaefer was quite impressed with how quickly we caught on. Ask me to show you at home!

SPECIAL NOTES

As you already know we have started to trace and attempt to write our own first names this month. Many of these letters we have not officially learned yet so we tell the children to do the best they can and we try our best to show each one the proper techniques: always start at the dot, always start each letter from the top, copy the exact letter you traced, etc. These three concepts alone would be greatly beneficial to the children if reinforced at home as well. Each day (if you have time) please talk about each letter in the name that was made and especially check to see if the letters were started at the top – this is an extremely hard habit to break if he/she is already used to writing letters from the bottom. Again, gentle reminders and any help at home is appreciated. THANK YOU!!!!!!

Have another fantastic fall weekend everyone!
